FRENCH RACE TO STRASBOURG

ALSACE-LORRAINE CAPITAL REACHED BY DASHING FRENCHMEN

ANOTHER ALLIED ARMY HEADING TOWARD CITY AGAINST FLEEING NAZIS

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press War Editor.

French armored vanguards reached Strasbourg on the Rhine today, driving against only light resistance to the capital of Alsace-Lorraine in an 18-mile advance against reeling remnants of the tattered German 19th army.

Still another Allied army in the south was heading northward against that Rhine river bastion, and the Germans were fleeting across the river.

On the northern wing of the American drive into the Reich, a furious battle raged into its seventh day in the Roer valley. Despite the loss of more than 75 tanks in a week, the Germans threw in strong counter-attacks against the American Ninth army as the Americans slogged doggedly ahead through icy rain and a sticky mire.

Rain, fog and snow grounded the Allied Air Force yesterday, except for a few sorties in the south. U. S. and German tanks fought it out at point blank range for Julich, Roer river city on the Hitler superhighway running from Aachen through Cologne to Berlin, in a battle described by participants as their fiercest of the war.

Green Nazi Troops.

American and French assault teams in the south were opposed in many cases by green Nazi troops, indicating the Germans were resigned to giving up Lorraine and probably Alsace, to salvage what they could from the debacle in the Vosges mountains.

But in the north U. S. Ninth Army troops which drove through Koslar and Barmen, 26 miles from bomb-wrecked Cologne, were fighting the best troops the Nazis could muster in the west.

On their left, the British fought in Holland to within two miles of the border city of Venlo from the captured highway town of Amerika, and Second army forces in Germany stormed and held Hoven, a high feature north of Geilenkirchen.

Berlin said the British had opened a major new attack toward the Ruhr under terrific artillery pressure, and that to the south 1,000 U. S. First and Ninth army guns opened up east and northeast of Aachen.

First Army Inches Forward.

The First army, which captured Eschweiler yesterday, inched forward slowly in the Hurtgen Forest against intense enemy fire.

On the Third army front, U. S. armor drove another mile into Germany, while other forces drove to within 15 miles of the industrial city of Saarbrucken. On its right the Third army linked with the left flank of the advancing U. S. Seventh, while beyond Metz.

Negro Trusty At Reformatory Slain For Death Woman

PIKEVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Chief of Police W. M. Tollett said today that a negro trusty at the Tennessee state training and agricultural school (reformatory) for negro boys near here was shot to death by a crowd which took him away from the jail after the daughter of the superintendent of the school had been killed and his wife severely injured.

The trusty, James T. Scales, 17, who had been sentenced from Nashville on a robbery charge, was "shot to death," the police chief said, after a small crowd obtained custody of him from a woman employe at the jail while Sheriff Henry Goforth was absent.

The negro had been taken to the jail after Mrs. Gwinn McKinney had been found dead and her mother, Mrs. H. E. Scott, unconscious at their residence. Superintendent Scott was in Nashville at the time.

Chief Tollett said he had been informed that before he was shot Scales had admitted attacking the women with a hammer and knife.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 23.—(AP)—A negro trusty at the Tennessee state training and agricultural school (reformatory) for negro boys was reported seized and killed by a mob today following the laying of the daughter of the institution's superintendent.

A report of the negro's fate was telephoned to the Nashville Banner by Bookkeeper Paul Treanor of the institution shortly after State Commissioner of Institutions W. O. Baird announced here the fatal injury of the superintendent's married daughter and serious injury of his wife.

Dr. Baird and Treanor identified the negro trusty as James Thomas Scales, 17, of Nashville.

Dr. Baird said Mrs. Guinn McKinney, daughter of Superintendent H. E. Scott, was killed and Mrs. Scott injured at the Pikeville, Tenn., reformatory while Supt. Scott was conferring with Dr. Baird here. Mrs. Scott, reported severely beaten, was taken to a Chattanooga hospital for treatment.

Details of the case were not available immediately.

Peace Program Be Discussed Friday With Stettinius

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Nine members of the senate foreign relations committee will confer with Acting Secretary of State Stettinius tomorrow on developments toward an international peace organization.

The group, headed by Chairman Connally (D-Texas), is the one which has consulted with Secretary Hull on peace plans from time to time during the past two years. The other members are Senators George (D-Ga), Thomas (D-Utah), Barkley (D-Ky), Gillette (D-Iowa), Lafollette (Prog-Wis), Vandenberg (R-Mich), White (R-Me), and Austin (R-Vt.).

Connally said he expected a discussion of the most recent developments respecting establishment of a permanent international organization in behalf of peace and against aggression.

AMERICAN FIGHTER PLANES AND NAVAL CRAFT BLAST ENEMY

TROOP-LADEN FREIGHTERS SUNK OR DAMAGED IN LEYTE SECTOR

By C. YATES MCDANIEL,

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 23.—(AP)—American fighter planes and light naval craft tightened their precautions against the landing of Japanese reinforcements on Leyte Island today as Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported the enemy has apparently chosen the Limon bastion for his major stand in defending the Ormoc corridor.

Fighter pilots sank or heavily damaged four troop-laden freighters, four luggers and 14 barges, a headquarters communique said, as they fended off an apparent Japanese attempt to send badly-needed help to their forces on the Yamashita line.

MacArthur said the enemy "has drawn heavily on his immediate reserves to bolster this line of resistance" at Limon.

No important American gains were reported in the deadlocked battle for the Ormoc corridor but Yankee infantrymen, fighting over a water-logged terrain, drew tighter the noose they have thrown around the Japanese First division at Limon.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz issued revised figures on Japanese losses in a navy air sweep over Luzon island last Saturday, disclosing that the Americans had sunk, burned or damaged 17 Japanese freighters, oilers and luggers. Lister as sunk were a small coastal cargo ship and a lugger, while six cargo vessels, an oiler and five luggers were set afire and a cruiser was strafed and crippled. Destruction of three additional Japanese ships in this action had been previously reported.

American air patrols made new attacks on enemy ground installations and communication routes in the Ormoc corridor. Japanese air activity was dismissed by MacArthur as negligible.

RUSSIANS INCHING CLOSER TODAY TO HUNGARIAN CENTERS

By DANIEL DE LUCE.

MOSCOW, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Russian assault forces inched closer today to the Hungarian communications strong points of Hatvan, Eger and Miskolc in grim hand to hand fighting along the 85-mile battle line northeast of Budapest.

Chill rain and deep mud slowed Marshal Rodio Y. Malinovsky's offensive, but the Soviet communique listed six villages captured and 43 German tanks knocked out against fierce counter-attacks by Hungarian and SS (Elite Guard) Nazi units.

Front dispatches, emphazing the vigor of the Nazi defense, reported 12 counter-attacks were repulsed at Heviz-Gyor, a town just south of the Budapest-Hatvan railway captured yesterday by the Russians.

The early morning supplement of the Soviet communique broke several days of official silence about East Prussia and the area above Warsaw, reporting the repulse of German reconnoitering outfit in East Prussia and heavy patrol combat around the Polish town of Pultusk.

Otherwise, the war bulletins said, there was only minor action along the rest of the far-flung eastern front.

DEFINITE ACTION IS FORECAST IN PHONE STRIKE LATE TODAY

OHIO-BORN STRIKE SPREADS TO WASHINGTON AND DETROIT OVERNIGHT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Possibility that a mushrooming strike of women telephone operators would spread to New York City arose today as a forecast of "definite" action was heard in Washington.

Henry Mayer, attorney for the federation of long lines telephone workers said the union is considering calling out its girl operators in New York as a sympathy gesture to Ohio workers, who started the strike over expenses bonuses paid to workers imported into Dayton.

It already has spread to Washington and war-busy Detroit.

Virtually the only optimistic word of the day came from Miss Jeannette Reedy, vice president of Ohio union who wired associates in Dayton that prospects for settling the dispute today appeared good to her.

E. H. Gustafson, vice president of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company, told reporters in Washington that while workers had returned to their posts in Ohio the situation "still is serious enough in its effects on the war effort to warrant federal action."

A spokesman for Economic Stabiliation Director Vinson predicted the action here without hinting what it might be. Vinson, however, usually routes unsolved labor disputes to the White House. Only President Roosevelt can order government seizure.

A settlement, of course, would forestall federal action.

In New York, Henry Mayer, attorney for the federation of long distance lines telephone workers, said he understood that a settlement higher on an agrement by the employers "to move out the carpetbaggers who are now manning the job 24 hours a day and put back the 500 who are on strike."

"If the company does that," he said, "it is my understanding that the union is ready to abide by any decision or determination made by the War Labor Board.

A. J. Krug, war production board chairman, today was reported closeted with army officials. The army presumably would take over the struck exchanges in the event of seizure order. Krug's activity in the strike stems from the Office of War Utilities, a WPB branch which he formerly headed. It is charged with maintenance of war essential utilities.

In Washington, hub of United Nations communication links, company officials said its long distance switchboards were "about two-thirds" covered. A spokesman said "a lot of operators are going through" picket lines which were established early today.

The strike everywhere was orderly. It had little effect on the public generally, because most cities affected have automatic dial systems. These do not require operators.

"Or Else" Order Postponed.

The War Labor Board, after wrestling with the Ohio dispute throughout Wednesday, deferred its "or else" action—the possibility of the government taking over—until today. It announced last night it would refer the case to Economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson—an action which normally precedes actual presentation to President Roosevelt.

The War Production Board, the war department and other agencies interested themselves in the case but their officials declined to say whether they were taking any active part.

The strike started in a protest by Dayton operators against the granting of $18.25 living expense accounts weekly to outsiders brought in to help run the switchboards. Operators in 28 other Ohio cities fell in line.

Contributions To County War Chest Fail Reach Quota

Navarro County has contributed a total of $45,174.61 to the War Chest, which is $11,328 short of the goal set for the county, R. S. Reading, general chairman reported Thursday.

Reading said that reports on contributions for the City of Corsicana were 99 per cent complete but added that several large communities in the county are still to be heard from.

Contributions received by the War Chest which have not been previously reported are as follows: Powell Community, $369.67; City of Corsicana, $750; Curry Community $52; Junior High School $28.09; Senior High School, $55.15; Alliance Hall, $75.65; Rice community, $513.96; and miscellaneous contributions $322.65.

CITIZENSHIP FAILING MEET RESPONSIBILITY WITH BOND PURCHASE

PRELIMINARY SURVEY IS VERY DISCOURAGING, SAYS CHAIRMAN BUTLER

"A preliminary survey of bond sales for the Sixth War Loan in Corsicana and Navarro county indicates the citizenship does not realize the seriousness of the situation or how urgently the money is needed for the successful prosecution of the war," Joe E. Butler Navarro county war finance chairman said Thursday in reporting total sales to date are indicated at less than $150,000 against a quota of $2,655,000 for the county.

"It is very discouraging and I am at a loss to account for this seeming indifference on the part of so many of our citizens," Butler observed adding that "I do not like to appear pessimistic over the situation but present sales figures allow no other view at this time."

No Excuse

"No thoughtful citizen will offer as an excuse for non-participation or minimum participation in the Sixth War Loan that he has bought war bonds in previous drives or has fulfilled his obligation by buying a minimum amount of this gilt-edge security," the chairman observed.

"This is the kind of war in which every American's life and home are just as much imperilled as the life of a combat soldier," Butler warned. "This war has to be fought on the enemy's terms. The Japanese terms are death by bayonet, starvation or even worse. The Japanese kill or are killed. The Japanese think you will be unable to match their sacrificial spirit, their willingness to conquer or die."

Pledge of Support

"All of us in saying a goodbye to our own overseas-bound man or woman in uniform offer him or her our pledge of support," the chairman reminded. "The test of our sincerity is our willingness to sacrifice. If you have restricted your war bond buying in the Sixth War Loan to what you can comfortably spare, you have failed to recognize your responsibilities as a relative or friend of a fighting man."

Butler announced that Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the Corsicana Country Club all community chairmen and bank presidents in the county will be guests at a dinner at which time ways and means of reaching the county quota without further delay will be discussed.

THANKSGIVING CAME TO AMERICAN TROOPS ENGAGED IN BATTLE

TURKEY FOR MEN IN TRENCHES EVEN THOUGH CIVILIANS HAD NONE.

By The Associated Press.

Doughboys on the front line in Europe celebrated a dismal Thanksgiving today under gray and dripping skies, inching forward torturously into Germany in some of the bitterest fighting of all the invasion of Europe.

But Thanksgiving came to all American fighting men on the farflung battle fronts as it came to the Americans at home—with a prayer and with confidence and hope.

For Americans like a Louisiana private on the U. S. First army front in Germany, Thanksgiving meant principally this:

"Brother—I'm just thankful to be alive."

Many civilian tables back home were without turkeys this year, but the fighting men were scheduled to get the traditional Thanksgiving feast wherever possible, both at home and abroad.

The department proclaimed turkey a must for the man in the trenches, while those in hospitals, training areas and combat stations also fested on king tom. Aship and ashore the navy served holiday dinners from the 12,000,000 pounds of "young roast tom turkey" set aside to supply its Thanksgiving Christmas and New Year's feasts.

The army assured that cooked dinner were being carried "very close to the fighting lines," and the navy allotted a pound for each man in the continental United States with an extra half pound

Battle Casualties All Theatres War Over Half Million

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Battle casualties for the armed forces in all theaters since the start of the war total 528,795.

Secretary of War Stimson said today army casualties reported through Nov. 7 amounted to 454,180 of which 88,245 were killed. This was an increase of 16,724 since a previous report covering casualties reported through Oct. 28.

The latest navy report numbers casualties at 74,6115, an increase of 2,776 since a report two weeks ago.

Army casualties compared with those for two weeks ago, follow:

Killed 88,245 and 84,811; wounded 254,283 and 243,054; missing 56,442 and 55,011; prisoners 55,210 and 54,480.

The navy casualties:

Killed 29,208 and 28,599; wounded 31,574 and 29,442; missing 9,347 and 9,311; prisoners, 4,486 and 4,487.

BARKLEY PREDICTS BIG CUT IN TAX BILL AFTER WAR IS OVER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Democratic Leader Barkley predicts that the present annual $45,000,000,000 federal tax bill can be cut about in half after the war.

"I believe that when this war is over," he said, "we can build a sound economy in which there will be jobs for all who want to work. With the right co-operation and exercise of wisdom we can have a national income of somewhere between 125 and 150 billion dollars, or even more.

"We are now paying about $45,000,000,000 a year in taxes, which is about what the whole national income was not so many years ago. When the war is over, I believe we can reduce this tax bill to somewhere between $22,000,000,000 and $25,000,000,000."

Barkley's remarks were made during senate debate yesterday on the $1,000,000,000 flood control authorization bill.

Holland Town Of Amerika Is Now In Allied Hands

By The Associated Press.

Amerika is now in allied hands. Supreme headquarters announced today the capture of the Holland town by that name. The British radio said its capture was accomplished by British troops who met only a few sniping rearguards and a pocket or two of anti-personnel mines.

BBC Correspondent Frank Gillard said troops found only "a few shell-blasted trees and houses here and there, some smashed up warehouses and factory buildings, almost inaccessible along the canal bank—a picture of unrelieved wrethcedness and miserp and desolation."

Gillard recalled that Dutch farmers in the Amerika area used to grow tobacco which was marketed in the Netherlands wrapped in packages labeled "Made in Amerika."

"It used to sell well," Gillard said in the broadcast, reported by OWI.

ALLIED ADVANCE INTO GERMANY BRINGS DANGERS FROM NAZI UNDERGROUND UNITS AND SPIES

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

The allied advance into the Rhineland is encountering new problems of security, due to dangers from nazi underground units and from spies—threats which General Eisenhower has recognized by issuing an iron-clad rule against Yankee soldiers fraternizing with German civilians, even speaking to them, under penalty of very heavy fines.

This menace originally was brought to the attention of folk back home here when Lt. Gen. Hodge's first American army reached the Aachen sector. The mysterious disappearance of some of his men, apparently victims of the underground, resulted in the issuance of orders against fraternization, and since then the rules have been made more rigid.

Every mile of penetration into Germany by the allied armies increases the difficulties. Many "civilian" operatives are nazi soldiers who've discarded their uniforms for mufti and who are equally prepared to play the part of spies or do murder.

Of course that's not the whole story. Apart from the spying and underground operations it's damaging to the morale of soldiers to fraternize with the civilians of an enemy country. You can't be friendly with folk and be tough with 'em at the same time.

Some of you undoubtedly remember the first Christmas in the last war, when British Tommies and German soldiers decided to bury the hatchet for that one day of "paece on earth." In some sectors they fraternized in no-man's land, swapped Christmas boxes from home, and even played football. But the military moguls quickly stepped on such comradeship among men who were booked to kill one another.

It's amazing how much hurt can be done by a seemingly harmless bit of information. For instance say a new allied division has just moved into a sector where troops are being concentrated to make an offensive. A couple of boys from this division drop into the local pub for a glass of beer.

The genial landlord hears the casual mention of the name of the division and reports it to his headquarters. The German command immediately recognizes that this division twenty-four hours earlier was in a sector fifty miles away. It's appearance in the new sector probably means that the allies are concentrating troops there thus the secret of the coming offensive is given away.

ARMORED DIVISION OF GEN. LE CLERC HAS ADVANCED 18 MILES

FAR TO NORTH, COLOGNE FRONT, GERMANS LAUNCH COUNTERATTACKS

By WILLIAM FRYE

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The famous French Second Armored division of Maj. Gen. Jacques Le Clerc dashed 18 miles across the level Rhine plain today into the outskirts of Strasbourg, largest French city still in German hands.

Far to the north in the soggy, heavily fortified Roer river valley 26 miles from Cologne, German divisions threw a series of counterattacks at the U. S. Ninth army despite the loss of more than 75 tanks in the week-long battle in the fortified zone approaching the Rhine.

The whole German front in the south was dissolving. The French who had fought across the Sahara wastes and helped Marshal Montgomery break the Mareth line guarding Tunisia, encountered only light resistance. The Germans obviously were scurrying across the swift and broad Rhine by any means at hand. The fate of six to ten divisions of the German 19th army was at issue; only soupy weather saved them from slaughter from allied air power.

Armor Races Through Gap.

The French tanks and guns raced through the Savernen Gap southeast of Metz to reach Strasbourg at the Rhine, a strongly fortified trade and industrial center on the Ill, an affluent of the Rhine which flows but two miles away. Normally, 193,000 live in Strasbourg under the guns of the Siegfried line across the river.

An American major general taking a prominent role in the direction of the campaign toward Strasbourg and the Rhine declared flatly that the German lines in the Vosges mountains were broken; that the enemy was disorganized completely. German prisoners told interrogators they had been ordered to abandon all equipment, break into small groups and get back into Germany as fast as possible. The general said it would take ordnance men a month to count the booty. He said 5,380 Germans had surrendered since November 13, adding:

Under dismal dripping skies, other Americans of the first and ninth armies beyond Aachen inched forward all along the line in some of the bitterest fighting of the whole invasion.

Gales drove sheets of cold rain into the faces of slowly advancing Americans on the Cologne plain. Mud clung to tank treads, limiting their movement. But the resoluto men of the Ninth, sending hundreds more prisoners to join the 6,156 Germans they had captured in six days, fought into the Roer Valley villages of Koslar and Barmen before the highway center of Julich.

French armor bolted four miles north of Mulhouse and through the Saverne Gap onto the level Rhine plain toward Strasbourg. The whole German front in the south was like a melting iceberg and those remaining of 70,000 Germans originally reported pinned against the Rhine probably already are retreating across the broad and Swift frontier stream.

GENERAL EISENHOWER APPEALS TO AMERICAN PEOPLE TO BUY BONDS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today his soldiers were making daily headway by courage and suffering but they need "myriads of shells and tires and guns and blankets and planes."

The man commanding the gigantic western front offensive against Germany appealed personally to the American people to over-subscribe the Sixth War Loan drive and "transform the money quickly into vital fighting equipment."

It was Eisenhower's second urgent appeal to buy war bonds. He made it in a talk prepared for (NBC) broadcast from his European headquarters. The text of the statement also was released by the treasury department.

Mud, cold, bullets and minefields can't stop the millions or American boys from pushing the enemy back if they are plentifully supplied and supported from the homeland, Eisenhower declared.

The equipment is needed "now," he said. And the soldiers must get it "from the money you lend the government."

He said the American fighting men are "entitled to the constant assurance of your understanding, of your resolution and of your unflagging zeal."

No New Figures.

War loan headquarters had no new figures for Thanksgiving Day. The latest progress report yesterday chalked up $482,000,000 paid in by individuals, compared with the total quota for individuals of $5,000,000,000. The drive began Monday and will end Dec. 16.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, said in a Thanksgiving Day Message over the same program with Eisenhower that "we give thanks x x x to the men and women and children on the home front. Their toil and their savings invested in war bonds have made possible the outfitting and supply of the great fleet which has struck the enemy so effectively."

And Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., commander of the Third fleet, said: "We give thanks that we have a decent homeland to fight for. We give thanks that we have been able to keep the enemy's fleet and his bloody hand from touching that homeland."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur in a war bond message released by the treasury said "We at the front have complete faith in you at home. The spirit of America—always in your heart—has never failed us and we know you will supply needed money through the purchase and holding of war bonds."

APPEAL MADE FOR RECRUITING OF MORE NURSES FOR ARMIES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The War Manpower Commission has appealed to its state committees to intensify recruiting of nurses for the armed services.

A spokesman said 10,000 additional nurses are needed immediately to meet army needs for care of wounded and sick soldiers both at home and overseas.

The agency directed field committees to make additional names of nurses available at once to the American Red Cross for recruitment purposes.

The spokesman said the drive is on an entirely voluntary basis.

NOT THANKSGIVING IN TEXAS TODAY BUT MANY OBSERVE DAY

By The Associated Press.

Today is not Thanksgiving in Texas, but—

Thousands of turkeys with traditional trimmings will be eaten at army and navy camps throughout the state as service men observe the Thanksgiving proclaimed by President Roosevelt.

Fort Worth schools, banks, department stores and government offices will close. Union church services will be held.

San Antonio banks, city and county offices and stores close. A few San Antonio churches will hold special Thanksgiving services.

Dallas banks, stores and many offices will close.

Service men will enjoy the nation's best food, with standard menus including turkey, pickles, stuffed celery, sage dressing, cranberry sauce, olives, asparagus, fruit salad, hot rolls, mince pie and pumpkin pie, candy, nuts and coffee.

But it's not Thanksgiving in Texas. Today is Thanksgiving in 40 states and the District of Columbia. Georgia plans to celebrate both days.

Texas, with Florida, Arkansas, Idaho, Nebraska, Tennessee, and Virginia, will observe Thanksgiving next Thursday, Nov. 30. There may not be many turkeys left, but the big Thanksgiving Day football game of the year will be played then between University of Texas and Texas A. and M.

INDUSTRY, LABOR AND JOBS, PROBLEMS NEEDING RELIGION*

Some Significances of the Rise of Workingmen to New Power, Here and Abroad—A Personal Peep Into Russia—The Nazareth Carpenter's Role

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

During the Russian revolution I went into Moscow on the last day of the fighting, and on the first train that had gone in from Odessa and Kiev, where I had seen the Bolsheviks victorious. At the train gate stood a workman, with a red brassard on his arm and a revolver at his belt. He was in working clothes—probably he owned no others—and yet he had the dignity and authority of a veteran official. As he examined papers, he was patient and tolerant and sympathetic, and utterly fit for his responsible post.

That man's image often recurs to me, as I read the marvelous tales of the amazing capabilities of Russian soldiers and peasants, and realize that all of them are workingmen, with no help from the former ruling class. This is the world's largest scale example of a nation transformed by the common people the men and women who toil. Russia today is a demonstration of the latent power of workers, who, everywhere, are the majority of mankind.

Today's Big Problem

During the past generation we have seen an unprecedented growth of organized labor. Its achievements, broadly viewed, have been beneficent. In Great Britain the Labor Party is the group with the largest social vision. In North America unionism has suffered severe growing pains, such as racketeering local leaders. Its greatest leaders are men of vision and integrity.

Basically, the dangerous tendency in labor unions, as well as in manufacturers' organizations, is to think of themselves first of all as members of an organiaztion or class, rather than as individual citizens of the nation and of the world. In that direction lies loss of personality and clashing strife with other groups. We cannot have a divided off into warring groups of labor versus capital; of native-born versus foreign-born; of Roman Catholics versus Protestants, of Jews versus Gentiles, of negroes versus Whites. Patriotism demands tolerance and unity, such as the Scriptures teach. Class-consciousness is the antithesis of democracy.

What About Post-war Jobs?

Our prints are full of discussion of the greatest post-war problem—jobs for the returning service men and women. This is something to engross every patriot's thought. Whoever can help create new jobs deserves to rank with battlefield heroes. The twin chariots of peace and prosperity travel on the wheels of work for everybody.

Returning service men do not want doles; they want jobs, wherein they may express their capabilities and maintain a decent, self-respecting life. They want to work with, as well as for, employers. They have won a war for human freedom, and they want a slice of that freedom when they come home.

Our nations's ability to solve the job problem will determine whether we shall have domestic peace or a vast social and political upheaval. The present test is one for labor, but even more for employers.

These two groups need to plant their feet firmly upon the Bible's bedrock teaching of brotherhood.

Behold the Carpenter

The hero who captains the new day was once a callous-handed carpenter. He has already delivered mankind from the curse of slavery which prevailed in the days of his flesh. The amelioration of the workingmen's lot, during the past hundred years especially, has been due to the moving of His Holy Spirit among high and low. That Jesus Himself was a member of the world's toilers is a fact of profundest significance. As Henry van Dyke wrote, in "The Toiling of Felix,'

"This is the Gospel of labor;
Ring it ye bells of the kirk:
The Lord of love came down from above,
To dwell with the men who work."

On my first visit to Nazareth I sought out a native carpenter shop—not the "house of Joseph," commonly shown to tourists. I found the Nazarene seated on the floor, amid fragrant chips, using hands and feet, making plows and yokes with primitive tools. Yes, the Carpenter who said "My yoke is easy and my burden is light" has made many a smooth and well-fitted yoke.

Ove alls and White Collar

In our snobbish ignorance, many privileged persons never realize that it takes more brains and character to be a good machinist than to be a broker or a salesman. The efficiency of the "practical man" in overalls is a basic asset of the Country.

"Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed.' If any will not work, neither let him eat". Such are a few sentences from the Scriptures injunctions to high and low.

Religion is more interested in the spiritual and moral product in the worker hmself than it is in his material output. The Bible also deal, in sternest terms, with the employer who exploits the employee. Christ, who fraternized famaliarly with the poor and the rich, laid down love's law of brotherhood as the basis of life. And on that basis alone will our problems of industry and labor be solved.

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS

It is safer to trust your eyes than your ears when a man argues religion while his wife carries in the water.

—Ram's Horn

—Napoleon

Stay, stay at home, my heart and rest;
Home-keeping hearts are happiest.

—Longfellow

—Arab Proverb

Let him that stole steal no more; but rather let him labor, working with his hands the thing that is good, that he may hath need.

—Ephesians 4:28

Now I get me up to work,
I pray the Lord I may not shirk;
If I should die before the night,
I pray the Lord my work's all right.

Today On The Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.2—(AP)—How has labor—now demanding higher wages—made ut in wage increases and earnings in this war?

Here are some figures—they apply only to factory workers although there are about 16 million of them—from the government's Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS.)

The BLS says they show the average increases obtained by factory workers in the country as a whole since Jan. 1. 1941:

1. Gross weekly earnings—which are earnings before any deductions—up 71 per cent.

2. Net spendable weekly earnings—up 47 per cent for a man with a wife and two children, and up 31 per cent for the more heavily-taxed individual with no dependents.

These are the weekly earnings which a worker carries home after deductions have been taken from his gross earnings.

3. Straight time for hourly earnings—up 42 per cent.

4. General wage rate increases—up 16 per cent.

This kind of increase is called an across-the-board increase. For example: All of a plant's workers, high and low paid. get a flat increase of say 10 cents an hour. It averages out at 16 per cent increase for that plant.

BLS estimates that 13 per cent of this 16 per cent general increase in wage rates occurred before the government established its rule to stabilize wages and prices in October, 1942.

5. Wage rates, generally and for individuals—up 28 per cent.

This 28 per cent total includes the 16 per cent general increase mentioned above. The remaining 12 per cent was given the individual workers in various ways and for various things:

Through incentive pay, added pay for length of service, raising sub-standard wages, increases for merit, and direct violations by employers of government restrictions on wage increases in order to keep workers from running off to some other employer.

Item No. 5 here is perhaps the most significant of all for those who want to argue about labor's current demands for higher wages. And this is why:

Back in 1942 the government set out to keep living costs from rising more than 15 per cent above Jan. 1, 1942. But now they're figured at 30 per cent above 1941.

To keep living costs and wages tied together and prevent both from rising, the government said back in 1942 through the War Labor Board (WLB):

Henseforth no one can get more than 15 per cent above the basic hourly rate which a particular job called for in January, 1941.

This didn't mean a man couldn't make extra money on that job through incentive pay or overtime.

But labor says WLB still enforces that 15 per cent limit although living costs have doubled to 30 per cent since WLB laid down the rule. So labor wants WLB to break the rule.

The CIO is strying to get the rule broken by asking for a flat 17 cents an hour increase for its steel workers.

Since the WLB says it won't break the rule, it is sending the CIO demand to the president for him to decide.

It's possible WLB Chairman William H. Davis will point out to the president that:

Although factory workers' general rate increases are only 16 per cent above January, 1942. the general and individual increases are up 28 per cent as against a living cost gain of 30 per cent.

Information From Navarro County Rationing Board

Many ceiling price violations are occuring in the sale of used Christmas toys, particularly wheel goods, W. A. Wright, chairman of the Navarro County Rationing Board, reported Thursday.

In Dallas, used tricycles that should bring from $7.50 to $10, are selling for from $25 to $30, Wright said. Wright urges that buyers of tricycles, scooters, push carts, baby buggies, etc., who believe that they are being overcharged, consult him before making purchases.

Wright also announced that oil heater inventories are fast disappearing, and that restrictive quotas must prevail. On this account, all approved applications now held pending availability of quota will be carefully reviewed and screened. Gas heater certificafte issuance was so great in October that inventories are being depleted rapidly, and quotas on these heaters will not be restored until December.

CIO DEMANDS WAGE FREEZES BE REMOVED IN PLANNED ACTION

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The CIO turned from its political interests to the economic today as the seventh annual convention was asked to demand immediate removal of wage freezes.

The 600 delegates, who yesterday enthusiastically voted to continue the Political Action Committee indefinitely, worked through the Thanksgiving holiday to wind up their meetings by tomorrow night.

Resolutions condemning the War Labor Board's handling of disputes and demanding that the "little steel formula" which has braked wage increases at 15 per cent above January, 1941, levels, be discarded, were prepared for formal action by the convention.

Concerning the board, one resolution reaffirmed its need as a "forum for a peaceful and equitable disposition of all disputes that may arise between labor and management which cannot be resolved through collective bargaining."

But, it added, the board "must completely reverse its present trend of appeasing those who actually seek its destruction and instead should adopt a few firm and forthright policies consistent with the original executive order pursuant to which it was created."

The board should streamline its procedure to eliminate long delays of routine and "innumerable appeals and reconsideration of cases which actually result in undermining the morale and productive efficiency of workers and result in a disruption of peaceful industrial relations," the resolution continued.

In the resolution on wage policy, the board was again condemned for "refusing to submit a recommendation to the President of the United States calling for a revision of the little steel formula to bring wages in realistic alignment with the sharp rise in the cost of living."

Thanksgiving Preview For War-Wounded

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23 (AP)—A Thanksgiving preview of roast turkey and all the trimmings—even a floor show—was given 177 war-wounded servicemen and 49 officers yesterday by George Mardikian, famed chef and restaurateur.

It was the third straight year Mardikian has given a Thanksgiving party to servicemen at his Omar Khayyam restaurant in gratitude to America, he said, for aiding his native Armenia in years past.

"This sure beats the GI chow on Span," smiled one-armed Corp. William Johnson of 1419 Galveston St., Laredo, Tex., of the Fourth Marine Division.

Wedemeyer, who came to Chungking as commander-in-chief of U. S. Army Forces in China after the recent recall of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, made the announcement at a press conference.

He also declared the Japanese would not be defeated by the island hopping strategy now under way in the Pacific but would have to be ultimately defeated in the continent of Asia.

He said his command automatically would embrace any American seaborne forces landed in China.

To root out the invader "we've got to get to grips with him on the continent," the General declared. "We must get a lodgment in China and sea communications."

CHUNGKING, Nov. 23. (AP)—Driving ahead in a three-pronged attack focused on Chefang, Chinese troops have cleared further stretches of the Burma road beyond fallen Mangshih and have captured strongpoints below the mouth of the Mangshih valley, the Chinese high command announced today.

The eastern prong engaged a Japanese force at Mengka while the western prong cleared most of the hill positions on the Namhkawn river, three miles north of Chefang.

DISCHARGED VETS RETURN TO THEIR OLD JOBS MAINLY

AUSTIN, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Under the serviceman's readjustment allowance act, 2,054 veterans have bre paid $128,935 in benefits since September of this year.

The State Unemployment Compensation Commission, which now handles these claims, said that a survey shows 50 per cent of the discharged veterans have returned to their old jobs and nearly as many have been placed in new jobs.

Veterans may file claims in any of the 160 offices and itinerant points maintained by the unemployment commission. To qualify for aid a veteran must have been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable, must have served since Sept. 16, 1940, and must have been in the service for 90 days or longer unless discharged because of service-connected disability.

Payments may be made to unemployed veterans for as long as 52 weeks, according to their length of military service, and these payments may be drawn over a period of two years after discharge or after the termination of the war, which ever is the later date.

Processing of veterans' calims is identical with the handling of claims for civilian unemployment benefits except that money for veterans is provided by the Veterans' Administration from funds provided by congress, whereas unemployment benefits are derived from the state's own trust fund contributed by the employers of Texas.

British Clear Nazis Out.

ROME, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Eighth army troops battling strong enemy resistance have cleared the Germans out of the Cosina river loop less than four miles southeast of Fienza and captured a few more villages in substantial gains in that area below the Bologna-Rimini highway, allied headquarters announced today.

Polish troops have continued their advance beyond bitterly contested Mount Fortino and captured the villages of Orlona, San Giagio and San Mamante.

CORSICNA, TEX., NOV. 24, 1944

HEALTH UNIT AN ESSENTIAL NEED

In the field of medicine is particularly applicable the old adage, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." In this area the Corsicana-Navarro Health Department serves as that ounce of prevention for every city and rural inhabitant of the county. Without the health prevention work now carried on by this health unit's reduced staff this county would be exposed in a much larger way to outbreaks of contagious and communicable diseases. Dreaded social diseases would become relatively uncontrolled. Spread of tuberculosis and dangerous intestinal diseases would reach new proportions.

Now is the time to realize these things, and not after the health unit has been allowed to die from lack of a relatively small financial support. With the shortage of doctors that exists here because of the demands of our armed forces prevention of disease assumes new importance. The more disease prevention and control we have, the fewer physicians we can get along with.

The enemies our servicemen are fighting in lands across the seas cannot reach us here. But this does not mean that we are safe. Our lives are not safe here without the protection which only organized effort for the elemination and control of disease can furnish. That organized effort is furnished by the city-county health unit. Without it there could be no adequate inspection of your water, milk and food supplies. There would be no leadership for a multitude of activities having to do with you and your neighbor's health such as fly control, rodent control and a multitude of others.

Therefore, the city-county health unit cannot be dispensed with. It is an essential feature of our home government quite as essential to our protection against disease as are the armed services to our protection against our enemies abroad. And the sooner we make this health unit an assured and permanent feature of our government, the more stable and sure will be the protection it can and will furnish us.

BASIS FOR PEACE

The time has come to apply scientific methods to character building and spiritual development, in order to attain world-wide peace. So says a settlement worker of long experience, George A. Bellamy, director of Hiram House in Cleveland. He sees no reason why this cannot be done. The same techniques which have brought such immense advances in the physical world can, he feels, be turned toward a "science of personality."

"There is no hope for our civilization," he insists, "unless through scientific research we find a system to develop citizens for the highest utilization of their capacities. The master forces in this blueprint are industry, government and living conditions, and the system must be based on factors which stimulate the individual."

Under Mr. Bellamy's direction, Hiram House is now engaged in a study of 500 families in regard to child training, as a possible beginning. The results of many such studies, over the nation, might well provide a starting-point toward a peaceful and constructive "world of tomorrow."

Edgar A. Guest

UNCHANGEABLE

In that very different world which they tell us is to be,
When the changes all are made, and the little nations free;
When the statesmen's work is done and the borders rearranged,
There are certain joys I've known which I hope will not be changed.
Let them better what they can, but I'd keep Thanksgiving Day
And the glorious Christmas time in the good old-fashioned way.
It may be when peace is made we'll establish brotherhood,
And the armaments of war will be put away for good.
We may give to one and all, by agreement, ampler life,
And relieve the human heart from the bitterness of strife,
But two customs still I'd keep, hold the future what it may,
And Thanksgiving Time is one, and the other Christmas Day.
I am sure if we should ask those who fight to keep us free—
All at battle posts today of the land and sky and sea—
They would say: "Although it's plain there is much we ought to change,
We're not fighting to return to a different land and strange.
It's the home we hope to find which now seems so far away,
And the Christmas as it was and the same Thanksgiving Day."

COLLECTIVE SECURITY

It seems clear from the results of the election that Uncle Sam has "gone international." This is probably the big fact in the national campaign. Leading newspapers say frankly that the vote supporting the national administration is "a staggering blow to isolationism."

This nation has found that for its own salvation it must join itself with like-minded nations at whatever cost, to suppress international outlaws who would destroy us. There is good and evil in the world collectively, among nations as among individuals, and there come times when the good has to fight the evil.

In the past this nation has sometimes stood aloof and virtually depended on others to fight its world battles. It can do so no longer, but must play its part, lest the others be destroyed one by one and ourselves be left alone to meet collective attacks from outlaws.

This means sacrifice, but it also means progress. In abandoning isolationism, America gets definitely into the stream of world events, and is better able to play her part, and win her share, in the peaceful progress to which she contributes.

RUSHES AND LULLS

Modern war proceeds by fits and starts, from the civilian viewpoint. There will be a sudden dramatic rush, like the bursting of the Normandy pocket or the invasion of Leyte, and then, after a short time, an apparent lull, with enemy counterattacks. This is usually because of the limitations of supply. Not even our vast number of ships can carry everything at once. There are just so many tankers for fuel, for instance.

Such lulls are no time for discouragement on the home front, any more than a period of victorious advance should be a signal for slackening of civilian effort. News that workers are leaving war plants for civilian jobs, or that bloodbanks can't make their quotas because people don't bother to keep appointments, are as bad for fighting morale as in their effect on stock-piles of needed materiel. General Eisenhower, in an interview with Anne O'Hare McCormick of the New York Times, was particularly urgent about this.

"Tell the people at home that the slightest let-down on their part communicates itself at once to the men," he said. "This phase of the war is like climbing the last and hardest ascent of a high mountain in a thick fog. You can't see where the top is, and you won't until you suddenly reach the turn and begin to go down on the other side. This is the year of decision, and to hasten the end we can't relax for a breath on the front or behind the front."

CITY OF CORSICANA MAKES CONTRIBUTION TO COMMUNITY CHEST

The City of Corsicana will donate $750 to the Community Chest purchase a street maintainer and hire a machine to uncover gravel for improving the City Lake Road according to three motions passed at Tuesday afternoon's meeting of the City Commission.

Commissioner W. E. McKinney made the motion authorizing the city to contribute $750 of its funds to the Community Chest. The motion was seconded by Commissioner N. F. Garrett.

Commissioner McKinney also made the motion authorizing the mayor and the street commissioner to seek out and purchase a street maintainer. Mayor John C. Calhoun said that the maintainer now in use by the city is practically worn out and F. V. Blucher, city engineer, said that the maintainer was vitally needed.

Prisoners Working

After Blucher had reported that 15 German prisoners of war, seven of them stone masons, were doing excellent work on the rip-rapping of the lake spillway and getting along much faster than he expected, Mayor Calhoun said that arrangements had been made to obtain gravel for improving the City Lake Road. Then, on motion of Commissioner Garrett, a resolution was passed authorizing the Street Department to hire a machine to uncover gravel on the J. N. Edens gravel pit for use in reparing and maintaining the City Lake Road as per the minutes of the last meeting. A resolution passed at the last meeting authorized application of gravel to this road.

McKinney Offers Assistance

In discussing improvement of the City Lake Road, McKinney said he was always willing to do his part on any improvement to this road. He offered to pay for his part of the cost of the gravel applied and said he had two trucks which might be used by the city in applying the gravel. Blucher estimated that it costs 40 cents per yard to strip and load gravel for this road improvement, and Mayor Calhoun stated it may take from 1000 to 2000 yards to improve the road.

The commission authorized payment of a bill for 8 barrels of road asphalt costing $40 presented by Charles Willmann. The asphalt was used last February on Second Avenue and was in the nature of a loan to the city, Mayor Calhoun said.

The commission authorized transfer of $2,000 from the parking meter fund to the street fund and transfer of $5,000 from the water fund to the general fund.

Son of Former Corsicanan Had Part in Big Job

Col. William C. Kinsolving of Beaumont, who had an important part in building the main portion of a fuel pipeline which ultimately will reach from Calcutta to China across Burma, is the son of the late Eura Kinsolving of this city, and wife, both of whom were residents of Fort Worth at the time of their death. Col. Kinsolving is a nephew of Mesdames H. J. Robbins and J. W. McGill of this city, and has many friends here who will be interested in his latest achievements.

A two-year blanket of secrecy was lifted recently with disclosure of numerous facts concerning the longest military operational pipeline in the world, and whose construction was one of the war's most remarkable engineering feats.

Col. Kinsolving had the job of building northward from the receiving port at Calcutta where ocean-going tankers come in.

American engineers and construction crews often worked on twenty-four hour schedules, in drenching rains of the monsoon and in 120-degree heat. They have had to endure malaria irregular meals, dysentery, leeches and skin diseases. They have had to struggle through waist-deep swamps and across boiling mountain streams.

When completed, the pipeline will mean that General Claire L. Chennault's United States Fourteenth Air Force in China will have gasoline for vastly increased air force activities.

Mrs. Kinsolving in Washington

During the absence of her husband, Mrs. Kinsolving is residing in Washington, D. C., where their daughter, Keith, is attending National Cathedral School, while their son, Bill, Jr., is a student at Staunton Military Academy. Following his graduation next year he will attend the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis to which he recently received an appointment.

Frost PTA Enjoys Program Given By Senior Class Members

Ten members of the Senior class gave the program, Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 21, at a regular meeting of the Frost Parent-Teacher association. Ross Harrington, Imogene Parum, Ted Hinkle, Betty Omberg, Lois Crawford, Jackie Armstrong, Louise Cagle, June McClure, Norma Ponder and Estelle presented the subject "Linking the School with Life" in a very interesting manner.

A high point of the session was the pledging of a life membership. Mrs. G. E. Moore, Miss Beatice Jones, and Mrs. Tom Hooser are a committee to select the outstanding person to be so honored.

A committee consisting of Mrs. W. V. Harrison, Mrs. J. W. Matlock and Mrs. G. E. Moore was named to work with the school board, city council and other interested groups in an attempt to gravel the street from the highway to the schoolhouse.

Mrs. A. H. Faullin anad Mrs. Ernest Hooser were selected for chairmen of the high school and grade school room mothers respectively.

The 12th grade won the prize for having the most people present to represent their class.

IN ENGLAND — Pvt. J. Lynn Boyte, 20, U. S. Army, has arrived somewhere in England, acording to recent information receiven by his parents, Mr. ann Mrs. Rube Boyte, 2021 West Fifteenth avenue. 2 NAVARRO COUNTY MEN FIGHTING IN ITALY WITH FIFTH

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, ITALY—Pvt. George R. Channon, Kerens Route One, ammunition handler, and Cpl. Telesforo Gonzales, Rice, truck driver, are members of the 913th Field Artillery Battalion, one of the several units of Lieut Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army that recently broke several German counterattacks on Battle Mountain in Italy and supported infantry capturing Mount Cappello. Part of the 88th "Blue Devil" Division, the 913th usually employs its 105 milimeter howitzers in support of the 351st Infantry Regiment.

In a little more than six months in combat the outfit destroyed 18 tanks, 37 field guns, many pillboxes and a large quantity of motor transport. The battalion first went into action at Cassino February 28.

High Tribute Paid Corsicana Soldier

Another proof that American soldiers are the finest in the world is contained in a letter from a soldier in France who describes the excellent marksmanship and inspiring bravery of Sgt. J. R. Bush, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bush of Powell, Texas, and now with the First Army in Continental Europe.

The statement, which was written by Sgt Iral B. Wagonseller to his wife at Fruitland, Texas, says: "While we stand at our post quietly, we remember heroic deeds: Sgt. Bush of Corsicana on Purple Heart Hill north of St. Pois manning his gun when enemy attacked at dawn. He destroyed three panther tanks, and kept firing after his own tank had been hit three times. Sgt. Bush is the best gunner in the TD's (tank destroyers). He is quiet and modest; a good man, a real hero He should be given the credit of a hero. Sgt. Bush's family should read with pride of their son."

Sgt. Wagonseller explained that Sgt. Bush is his "buddy."

THANKSGIVING

Plymouth Observance

The townsfolk of Plymouth, Mass.—home of the first Thanksgiving—observed the day in a manner symbolic of the spirit of celebrations throughout the nation and near the battlefronts. There was morning prayer to be followed by their most elaborate wartime feast day and an evening tableaux with a cast of Pilgrim descendants. The Plymouth programs were scheduled for broadcast over regular and snortwave channels.

While traditional church services were being held throughout the nation, religions services were also taking place at every army post on the far-flung battle areas.

In Cherbourg, France

In Cherbourg, France, French civilians and British troops joined Americans in a festival evening at the Municipal theater.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges told his troops of the U. S. First army driving inside Germany along the approaches to Cologne.

"xxx it is enough for us to know, that because of you, people of all the world today are giving thanks to god Almighty who as made your vast achievement. xxx.

On the home front, war plants remained on full production schedule but stores and mercantile firms closed generally.

Because of the calendar quirk which produced five Thursdays this month, there again was a mixup over the holiday date. Forty-one states and the District of Columbia followed the General statute in celebrating today.

Arkansas, Idaho, Nebraska, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia will have their legal state holidays on the fifth Thursday, Nov. 30. Georgia will have two Thanksgiving days—today by Gubernatorial proclamation and next Thursday by state law.

Capt. and Mrs. S. J. Borden, Jr., arrived on Monday from Los Angeles, Calif., for a visit in the home of Mrs. Borden's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Fagan. Capt. Borden is taking training with the U. S. Army Air Forces at Metropolitan Field, Van Nuys, Calif.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. Curtis Pike of Alexandria, La., spent a short furlough here this week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Pike and Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Carr.

GI EDUCATIONAL METHODS DISCUSSED BY E. W. CRADDOCK

GI educational methods, will they work in our public schools? was the question E. Wayne Craddock, assistant principal of the Corsicana Senior High school attempted to answer in an address before the City Council of the Parent-Teachers Association last Thursday afternoon.

"The armed forces have challenged us to teach the GI way," Craddock explained. "They have produced charts, film-strips, tests and gaugets of every sort and believe that they have a definite contribution to make to the classroom learning environment."

Must Evaluate Material.

Craddock pointed out that educators must evaluate this material and choose only what is of genuine worth. He believes that well edited visual aids can be helpful in supplementing present teaching techniques.

GI means anything that is government issued, Craddock stated. He then described the induction, processing and other experiences familiar to every person who is serving or who has served in the armed forces during the present war. He termed military training purposeful 'motivated) training. The first factor in it includes salary, allotment, promotions, decorations, adventure and danger. The other factor is failure to conform. Failure to conform or to excel may mean certain death. "Learn and live," is the GI way.

"Tow near can we emulate such a method for the public school?" Craddock asked. "Would you be willing to give the state (the public school) the power of life and death over your child?. . . You are forced to give the state [illegible] way in time of war. but what about his education for peace? Would you consent to his being forced into physical fitness?"

Highly Condensed.

Craddock described the GI teaching technique as highly conrensed, and as a carefully edited and abridged method. "Only relevent, specific, definite information without explanation of, or reason for the existence, goes into the publications used," he said. "The instructor does most of the preparation, lectures the entire period, draws analogies, summarizes and finally tests the army student with a series of true-false quizzes, multiple choice . . . exercises. Get this point: There is neither time nor opportunity for the army student to take a quantity of material, read it, and select therefrom the important and relevant materials needed. The information is capsuled and poked down the throat of the army student. 'Their's is not to ask the reason why; their's but to take or die.'"

Craddock continued: "He 'pluses' and 'minuses' his way to the battlefield; the multiple choice operates upon the hypothesis that among the four or five things a man might think of doing in a tense situation, one would surely be the right thing. How [illegible]ulous! And according to our philosophy in public school work. organizing and presenting of materials by students is one of the proven techniques of teaching."

DECORATED—Staff Sgt. Jack White, U. S. Army, has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action in France August 20, and the Purple Heart Decoration for wounds received in action in Germany September 20, according to information received from the war department by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe White, Richland. A veteran of 28 months overseas service, Sgt. White participated in the invasion of North Africa, France, Belgium and Germany. He volunteered for service in January 1940. A brother, Pvt. J. D. White is with the United States Marine Corps.

The Tenth District comprises Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

U. S. NAVAL AIR STATION, Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 21.—(Spl.)—Recently completing operational training at the U. S. Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Cecil Field, Jacksonville, Fla., is R. L. Shadix 19, Aviation Rarieman 3rd Class son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Shadix, of Richland, Texas.

Young Shadix has been undergoing rigid training as an aircrew man and radioman in SBD Dauntless dive bombers under simulated combat conditions. Upon completion of this course, which included flying as well as ground training, Shadix received his aircnewman's wings from Lieut. Comdr. John M. DeVane, aviation training officer.

Entering the Navy October 25, 1943, he has also had training at radio school at Memphis, Tenn., and gunnery school at Jacksonville. After his leave, Petty Officer Shadix will become a member of an air-combat team on an aircraft carrier.

Information From Navarro County Rationing Board

Retail merchants and others selling general services to the public who have gone in business since March, 1942, are also required to file a "Cost of Living Commodity Statement" with OPA, W. A. Wright, chairman of the Navarro County Rationing Board, warned Wednesday.

Wright said that this statement must be filed in his office by November 28. Names of those who fail to do so will be turned over to the enforcement section of the district OPA office in Dallas, he promised.

Ignorance of the fact that such a statement is required will not be accepted as an excuse for failure to file it, the chairman asserted.

Warnings concerning the proper display of ceiling price posters in restaurants and other eating establishments were issued Tuesday by W. A. Wright, chairman of the Navarro County Rationing Board.

First, post your price list where your customers can read it, Wright urged. Second, keep your poster clean. Have the writing legible and large enough to be read easily. Remember that the poster is part of your establishment. A dirty price poster will reflect the condition of the establishment. Third, do not make changes on your poster. Charges are forbidden by the regulation, and they make a bad impression on your customers. If you need another poster you can get one from your rationing board

Where the public is concerned, Wright explained, the new price posters can do an important job: They will show your customers that the cost of eating in restaurants is not out of line with the wartime cost of living.

Fine Brood Mare Drowned In Lake

Maroon Goddess, brood mare, owned by Mrs. R. L. Wheelock, was drowned in the lake on the farm early Sunday, according to the owner.

An automobile parked on the hill Saturday afternoon rolled through a fence near the lake. It is presumed the fine animal became entangled in water lillies and drowned when she was unable to swim out of danger.

The lost animal was the favorite of Mrs. Wheelock, and many of the finer horses of the Wheelock stables are from Maroon Goddess. She was a registered American Saddle horse.

Book Dedicated To Memory Late Mrs. S.M. Roughton

Although thirty-four years have passed since the late Mrs. S. M. Roughton organized the Sunday School class that is now the Young Men's Bible Class of the First Methodist Church, and seventeen years have passed since the taught the class, many of its members still remember her kindly. It was only last week that one of "her boys", as she delighted in calling them, placed a copy of the popular "Yankee from Olympus" in Corsicana Public Library and dedicated it to her memory in the following words:

"Dedicated to Mrs. S. M. (Cora) Roughton, one of Corsicana's great women. Mrs. Roughton devoted her life to humanitarian and philanthropic deeds. Thousands of citizens of Corsicana were made better citizens by having known her as a teacher in the First Methodist Church School, as a mother and as a tireless worker among poor and needy. And like Abiel Holmes' mother in this book " she never ate the bread of idleness," a worker for the good and a defender of the right."

The volume chosen for the dedicatory gesture presents a panorama of American life and is considered a work of major distinction.

Corsicanans will hear highlights from the engrossing chronicle on Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, when the Nineteenth Century Club presents Mrs. Roscoe Bates in its review at Kinsloe House, complimentary to the clubhouse membership.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1 Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2 Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

BOMB-SCARRED SERB CAPITAL RESOUNDS TO PARTISAN SONGS

By GEORGE BRIA

BELGRADE, Nov. 20—(Delayed)—(AP)—This cold, bomb-scarred Serb capital resounds with the songs of hundreds of partisans, drilling through streets decked with the red star, hammer and sickle and pictures of Marshals Stalin and Tito.

Virtually every store window in the city—liberated a month ago by Red army men and Tito's partisans—has identical pictures of Stalin and Tito. A two-story picture of Tito hangs in the heart of the hotel section.

A party of American, British and Canadian correspondents, the first to visit the city since it was wrested from German control, has just arrived here.

Four classes of soldiers were called up shortly after the city was captured, and volunteers are being taken steadily. The partisans train for a month before going to the front.

And the front is not far away, in three directions.

The capital's main problem is transportation. Fuel is available in the country, but railroads have been practically wiped out. A crisis was averted a few days ago when a Russian coal barge came down the Danube just as fuel was running out at the electric plant.

A chapter in the story of Belgrade which perhaps never will be told in full concerns the fate of some 15,000 Jewish residents.

In January of 1942 the women and children were rounded up and held in a concentration camp on the fair grounds. They disappeared and unconfirmed reports said many were killed in gas vans. The Jewish wives of Serbs were not touched.

PROMOTED—Sgt. Olan C. Bonner, 29, U. S. Army Air Forces, has recently been promoted to the rank of Staff Sergeant, according to information received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Bonner, Angus. Entering the service in January 1942, he has been overseas since September of the same year and has been serving in Egypt, Tunisa, Malta, Italy, Corsica and for the past three months has again been stationed in Italy. He is a graduate of the Emhouse high school.

SEEKING INCREASE IN PRODUCTION OF HEAVY DUTY TIRE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—Attacking supply shortages one by one, the war production board today sent out 32 rubber executives to find means of increasing heavy tire output 25 per cent.

Although the military demand for truck and bus tires "evidently is in excess of the industry's ability to produce," WPB vice chairman Hiland G. Batcheller said the agency intends to "do everything possible to get the things that General Eisenhower needs."

After a meeting which lasted late last night Batcheller reported a looming deficit of 1,000,000 heavy duty tires in the first quarter of 1945. The industry reported its capacity as 3,930,000 in those three months, while absolute minimom needs—mostly those of the army—were put at 4,941,000.

Synthetic tires are not lanting as well as expected because of the rough and muddy battle-zone terrain of Europe, the WPB official disclosed. And original military estimates of need have proved insufficient to meet the task of hauling arms and supplies to the advancing armies.

MAKES APPEAL FOR OBSERVANCE HERE FRIENDSHIP WEEK

An appeal to the citizens of Corsicana to observe the week of November 26 as "Friendship Week" was issued here today by Rev. Robert Bell, Baptist pastor of 1117 West 14th Avenue, who moved here two weeks ago from Monroe, Louisiana, and who has for ten years devoted all his time to preaching to and helping hoboes he meets in railroad yards and other places.

One of America's unique characters, Rev. Bell's work carries him into 33 states, west to El Paso, north to Omaha, Nebraska, east to Alabama and south to the Gulf of Mexico. Undismayed by a world apparently gone mad with hate, "The Sky Pilot" (the name by which he is commonly known to thousands) still hopes that this year, as last year and the year before, a few more persons will heed his appeal and make a new friend each day during "Friendship Week."

Started In 1933

Rev. Bell began his work in 1933 at the sugegstion of a hobo he met in a railroad yard in Tallahasse, Florida. After he had given the transient a meal he asked, "Why don't some of you preachers come down to the railroad yards and be our friends?" He met this same hobo two years afterward in Jacksonville, Fla., at a Salvation Army home and he became Rev. Bell's first convert.

But prior to meeting the hobo Rev. Bell had witnessed a tragic accident in the L. & N. Rilroad's Silbert Yard, Mobile, Alabama. A youth was climbing between freight cars when he lost his grip and fell only to be crushed and mangled to death. Memory of this tragedy and the hobo's question came as a challenge to Rev. Bell to do something for these transients.

Reeel ves Many Letters

So nuremous were his contacts that until the war interfered Rev. Bell received several letters each day from friends or relatives in search of boys or girls who had become tramps. Seven railroads support Rev. Bell's work by giving him transportation whenever he may wish to travel. The work is also supported by personal friends the Sky Pilot meets at luncheon clubs, in churches, in lodges and by personal contact. Too, many of those Rev. Bell has helped contribute to the work.

Three Reasons

Rev. Fell named three reasons why boys venture out to see what is beyond the water tower and ride freights: First, is the indifferent and careless attitude toward boys by their parents. The parents do not seem to care where their sons are or what they are doing. Second is the numerous divorces which result in broken homes. Broken homes lead to broken hearts. With nowhere to live children from such homes often take to the open road. Third, is the inborn spirit of adventure. Boys are not satisfied with seeing adventure on the screen or reading about it in books. They wish to see for themselves if it is true.

Closer Relationship.

Rev. Bell attempts to bring about a closer relationship between father and son and mother and daughter. And he tells young boys that "it is not safe to take the first train ride." He explains that boys who do so art liable to give themselves up to a life of wandering. He tells them that every mile of a railroad right-of-way is the same, that there is no adventure beyond the water tank, but that there are "acres of diamonds" in one's own back yard.

Rev. Bell will speak Thursday night to the Knights of Pythias lodge in Tyler, Texas. He will be in Waco all next week and give several addresses to the men's Bible class of the First Presbyterian church there.

Legion, Auxiliary Plan Christmas Hospitalized Vets

To make Christmas happier and brighter for GI Joe and Jane in government hospitals near Corsicana, American Legion and Auxiliary members have inaugurated a plan to make available from grateful Corsicanans and Navarro Countians gifts for the Yanks. Mrs. Hallie Steely has been named chairman of a committee to supervise the collection of gifts.

Corsicanan Legionnaires and Auxiliary members are determined that a brightly-wrapped Christmas package will be at the bedside of every disabled serviceman or woman in government hospitals during the holiday season.

Holiday shoppers are urged to make additional purchases when Christmas gifts are being bought—these gifts to be later distributed to hospitals in this section of the state. The purchase and presentation will make possible great happiness for the many, many thousands who hae given and who are continuing to give so much for all of America.

Shoppers are requested to purchase their gifts at the earliest date possible and leave them at the J. C. Penny Company, K. Wolens, J. M. Dyer Company, P. and S. Pharmacy or Skillern's Drug Store by December 10th. They are also urged to place a card on the gift stating the contents of the package. The latter request is very important and will assist in distribution of gifts to the proper persons.

List of Gifts

Legionnaires have compiled a list of gifts most likely to be appreciated by hospialized service men and women. WIFE RECEIVES AWARD—The Silver Star for gallantry in action was posthumously awarded S-Sgt. Theodore J. Master of Corsicana in a ceremony at Camp Fannin, Texas. Col. Charles H. Brammell, camp commander, presented the medal to the Sergeant's wife, Mrs. Inez Master, 621 West Fourteenth Avenue, Corsicana. Mrs. Master is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chapman, formerly of Hubbard. Sgt. Master's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Master, of Hubbard. Sgt. Master was killed in action in Normandy, June 13. Mrs. Master and a friend, Omega Littlejohn, 620 North Fourteenth Street, were the guests of Colonel Brammell at the East Texas training camp on Saturday, November 18. The Silver Star was presented in the presence of officers of Camp Fannin headquarters Captain Carlton W. Schilter, camp adjutant, read the following citation: "On 13 June 1944, in the vicinity of * * *, Normandy, Staff Sergeant Theodore J. Master went forward with an automatic rifle team to locate German strongpoints, neutralize enemy fire, and open a path for his company to advance. In the face of enemy frontal and flanking fire he achieved these objectives and destroyed two machine pistols. Aware of the risk he took, he then emerged from his concealed position and communicated the information to his company when he was fired on by the enemy and killed. The gallantry and disregard for personal safety displayed by this enlisted man reflect the highest credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States."

SPECTACULAR ARMY SHOW WILL BE PRESENTED AT CORSICANA RODEO ARENA NIGHT OF DEC. 9

Navarro county's greatest and most spectacular show of the year, thrill-packed with actual battle-front scenes, will be staged at Corsicana's fair grounds rodeo arena Saturday, December 9, according to preliminary plans made at a meeting of local War Bond chairmen and Lt. Nathan L. Cole, the army's advance publicity man for the show.

The show, called "Here's Your Infantry," will arrive Friday evening, December 8, in a caravan of 12 big army trucks, accompanied by two jeeps and four military police on motorcycles. With the show is a 29-piece military band from the 200th Infantry of Camp Gruber, Okla., and nearly 100 infantrymen with $65,000 worth of guns of all sizes, bazookas, flame throwers and other fighting equipment.

Down Town Parade.

The show will open with a downtown parade in which the Corsicana High school band is expected to participate, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Then at 6:30 o'clock the army exhibits will be opened to the public at the fair grounds, and at 7:30 o'clock the main infantry show with its grand finale will be staged. Presented in two acts, the show is expected to last approximately an hour and 15 minutes.

The army show which will be staged here is made up of skilled infantry combat teams from the army's top infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga. It is one of eight such shows which are touring 18 states during the Sixth War Loan campaign which officially opened November 20. The men who will participate in the show are from the Third Infantry Regiment and many of them are veterans of action in Europe and the Pacific. They will effectively demonstrate how your sons, husbands, and sweethearts are using the weapons of the infantry to knock out Japanese and German pillboxes.

Realistic Action.

So realistically did these men act last Saturday at Vinita, Okla., Lt. Cole said, that two of them suffered broken collar bones. He said that the show at Vinita was staged in a driving rain, but that this did not dampen local interest, for there was a capacity crowd present who stayed until the end of the final act.

The show, Lt. Cole said, gives the public a view of war at its grimmest—the moment when. after air power and artillery have battered at the enemy's frontlines and rear support, the infantryman closes in with machine guns, bazookas, hand grenades, flamethrowers, rifle and bayonet, and clashes with the enemy to kill him and drive onward—or die in the attempt.

Months ago, Lt. Cole, continued, the treasury department decided the show should be built around the infantry soldier. This is because the was is now in the infantry stage and practically every person has either a relative or a close friend participating in combat as a member of the army ground forces.

Infantry Leads Fight.

The sea apprvoaches of the enemy are steadily being cleared. The Normandy and Leyte bridgeheads demonstrated conclusively that American might can fight its way ashore and deliver ground troops in volume. From that point on, the infantry leads the fight, following the rolling barrage of the artillery, utilizing the support of air power, exploiting the breakthrough of tanks.

But it is the infantrymtn with his weapons for close-in fighting, who trudges each mile on foot, blasting at pillboxes, rounding up snipers, digging Japs out of holes and knowing that otter he and his buddies have captured one enemy hillside position, their only reward will be the knowledge that there is another hill just ahead that still calls for their brawn, blood and bullets.

Authentic Picture.

It was to take before the public an authentic picture of what the infantry does in battle that Lt Gen. Ben Lear, commanding general of the army ground forces, called upon the infantry school to organize the army's show's combat teams. From this Georgia school since Pearl Harbor, more than 100,000 students have graduated, over half of them second lieutenants who came from enlisted ranks via the officer candidate school.

Gen. Lear and Ted R. Gamble, national director of the War Finance division, U. S. treasury department, desires the public to know that their friends and relatives in the infantry are trained and equipped to a degree far beyond anything the American people have even seen before. Lieut. Cole said. The infantry fights with its hands more than any other branch, and in its hands is the best equipment that money and War Bonds can buy.

Picture of Real Thing.

Maj. Gen. Fred L. Walker, commandant of the infantry school, regards the "Here's Your Infantry" War Bond show as an excellent opportunity for giving parents and friends of infantrymen the best picture, short of the real thing, of what a foot soldier does in winning the war. Gen. Walker led the famed 36th "Texas" Division in the battles of Italy at Salerno, Cassino, Anzio and beyond Rome before he was called back by the late Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair to head the infantry school. His personal heroism elsewhere and at Salerno, where he set up public address systems on the beach and personally directed the deployment of troops to resist the German counter-attack, won him the Silver Star for gallantry in action and the Distinguished Service Medal.

After seeing this show you will not have to be told why you are asked to buy at least one $100 War Bond in the Sixth War Loan drive. Lt. Cole concluded.

More War Workers Urgently Needed

During October the local United States Employment Service office exceeded its quota for out of the area jobs by two workers, W. B. Reedy, manager for the office, has announced.

November has seen a decided drop in workers assignments to distant war plants, but the War Manpower Commission realizes that Corsicanan needs workers now for its own war plants and have reduced this area's November and December quotas, Reedy stated.

All interested in bringing the war to a speedy close should heed Gen. Eisenhower's dramatic appeal to the home front to produce more and more of the vital war materials, Reedy added. "We have vital war production plants here which are being called upon to increase their production. To do this they must have manpower. Anyone who is not engaged in some war esential job and who can accept employment here or elsewhere should contact the local USES office at once," Reedy said.

East and northeast of Metz, the U. S. Third army bulged into Germany within 15 miles of Saarbrucken. The Third took half a dozen or more towns. The French above Mulhouse were put 18 miles from Colmar, capital of Upper Alsace.

The U. S. Seventh army in the snowy Vosges mountains drove five miles through Charas and Grandrupt almost halfway through Seales Pass. Other American were well into the St. Maria, Bon Homme and Schlucht Passes through the Vosges.

Both towns are north of the Hitler superhighway from Aachen to Berlin and it was along this wide concrete road that the Germans had massed the best and most of their troops in the west. Below the road, Ninth army troops entered Bourheim, Pattern and Lohn to form a battering ram six miles wide and pointed directly at the bomb-ravaged Rhineland arsenal city of 768,000.

PICTURE OF BLOODY WAR IS PAINTED BY LUNCHEON SPEAKERS

PEOPLE AT HOME CANNOT REALIZE SACRIFICES MADE BY FIGHTING MEN

An audience of approximately 150 persons, most of them members of the Lions, Rotary and Civitan Clubs, who met for a joint luncheon at the Navarro Hotel Wednesday at the invitation of the American Legion, listened to a stirring address by Lt. Col. Clarence B. Cochran of the 45th Division, Okemah, Okla., and heard two other wounded veterans from McCloskey General Hospital tell of their wounds or of battlefront experiences.

"I am back here by the grace of God and because I had the services of a good army surgeon immediately after I was wounded," Col. Cochran said. He then told how he was hit by German fire when he raised up ont of his foxhole to make observations. He was given blood plasma and the best of medical attention soon after he was hit.

Tell of Wounds.

Corp. John T. Spangle of the 36th Division, Clifton, Texas, said that he was wounded in the arm and that a piece of bone was taken from one of his legs to repair this damage.

James C. Carpenter, paratrooper of Stephenville, said that he landed with pre-invasion forces in Southern France and was wounded when he entered a small building to get a German sniper. The building contained a booby trap and blew up after he entered it, killing the German soldier and blowing off Carpenter's right foot and his helmet. He said that in 47 hours from the time he was treated at his battalion aid station he was in the army hospital at Temple, brought there by an army transport plane.

Col. Cochran pointed out that the only reason the citizens at home are not giving more and doing more is because they are not properly informed, and because they do not know what's going on over there.

"Our boys consider it a privilege to fight for the American way of life," he said. "The boy who was my interpreter was of parents who were born in Italy. He had a good job and was 30 years old when the Pearl Harbor attack occurred. He spoke excellent Italian. Through his intelligence the cause of our battalion was greatly advanced. He appreciated that we must be willing to fight and die for our American privileges."

Col. Cochran then described how people live in Sicily and Italy. The houses are of mud and stone and contain little furniture. The people climb mountains and live in caves to get out of line of gunfire. They subsist on grass and herbs. He described the secrifices of one Italian family. The father was away or killed in action and two of the children of the family were killed by a booby trap mine.

Boys Make Secrifices.

"Yet you think that you have made some sacrifices when you give money or blood to the Red Cross, buy War Bonds and make other contributions. You are probably making more money than you have ever made before. It is not our boys over there, but our boys over there fighting in the mud and snow and sleet who deserve sympathy.

He described the McCloskey General Hospital as a permanent institution. "Anything you do for it will be permanent," he said.

"Your boys are doing a wonderful job. They are members of the finest army that any nation has ever put in the field. The Germans didn't realize they could make us mad. They thought we were soft. But they did not know that we say what we please as children and learn to use initiative. As children we play rough sports. Our soldiers are taking the spirit of initiative with them into battle. Our army stopped the Germans cold by their initiative."

G. I. Takes Over.

Col. Cochran then explained that the American GI takes over when his officers are killed. But the German soldiers run when their officers get knocked off. He also said that our men have learned to become ruthless in dealing with the enemy because of the unfair tricks they have played in them in battle. "Our men will be much wiser when they return" he said. They will not want to talk about the disagreeable scenes of battle. The hard time for them will be when they return. Treat them naturally, as you would anyone else. Don't pity them. They will take over when they return," he concluded.

Lt. Col. Joe M. Daniel, Sixth District comamnder of the American Legion, introduced the first speaker, Jack Stallings, division commander from Houston, who described the war machine we have built up since Pearl Harbor and explained what the American Legion is doing to help wounded veterans.

Christmas Campaign

He said that the Legion is putting on a "Christmas gifts for the Yanks who gave" campaign. This campaign is an effort to get each person who buys gifts for the holidays to buy one extra gift for wounded soldiers. The legion is also attempting to raise a fund to be used for various purposes by McCloskey General Hospital. The fund may be used to pay for telephone calls made by wounded soldiers when they come to the hospital and for other purposes for which the Army does not furnish funds. Milk bottles will be placed in Corsicana stores to receive the contributions, it was announced.

Corsicanans Urged Donate Clothing Destitute Greeks

The attention of Corsicanans is called to the collection of clothing which is now being assembled at George's Grill to be sent for the relief of a desperate condition now being experienced in Greece. S. N. Georgas, proprietor of the Grill, is directing the collection for the relief of his fellow-countrymen, and he is being assisted by Mrs. James Johnapelus and family, the local Council of Church Women and other groups.

Corsicanans are reminded that Greece today is literally in rags. Only the most fortunate have a change of outer garments. Overcoats are made of blankets, tailored by the few who can afford it, draped over the shoulders by the poor. Even in metropoliten Athens thousands go barefoot; in the country practically everyone is without shoes in winter and summer alike. In certain sections of Greece, exposure is now claiming more victims than starvation.

Conditions in Burned Villages.

Relief workers describe conditions in burned villages of Greece as deplorable. With no protection from the wind and rain, the people sleep on the ground—healthy and ill, children and animals all hungry with no bedding no shoes, and scarcely any clothing.

Up to February of 1944, over 650 communities had been partially or completely destroyed and more than 750,000 people—one-tenth the population of Greece—had been rendered homeless and utterly destitute. Subjected to the rigors of the mountain climate, without shelter, without shoes, and clad only in threadbare rags, these victims of Axis terrorism have been dying by the thousands from exposure and disease.

These Are the Vital Needs.

1. SHOES and COATS for hundreds of thousands of children whose undernourished, scantily clad bodies are easy prey for disease.

2. BEDDING and BLANKETS for hospitals whose wards are filled with pleurisy and pneumonia patients, victims of years of privation and malnutrition.

3. WARM GARMENTS and SHOES for one million Greeks in a tubercular of pre-tubercular condition, for another two and a half million with chronic malaria.

4. DURABLE CLOTHING of every description for nearly a million mountaineers who have lost everything in the flames of their burned villages.

won't you send what clothing you can spare to George's Grill, 109 East Collin street, at once in order that it may be on its way to the Greek War Relief warehouse in New York City, where it will be processed for shipment to Greece?

Pecans Placed In Storage Should Be Well Ventilated

Pecans in storage should be well ventilated, otherwise heating and molding may result. This reminder comes from Vera Sneed, County Home Demonstration Agent. She warns against storing the nuts in close fitting containers before the meats are thoroughly dry. It is better to keep the pecans in sacks for a couple of weeks, storing them where the air can circulate freely over and around them.

Where freezer lockers are available, pecans will keep satisfactorily for three years. The shelled meats should be stored in tin cans or other tight containers. They should be stored early, usually in December, before any deterioration in the meat begins.

Miss Sneed recommends canning pecans in glass or tin as being another good method of preservation. To can pecans fill glass fruit jars or tin cans with the nut meats. Cover but do not seal. Place the containers in a large boiler on a rack to keep them from direct contact with the bottom. Pour in about two inches of water and bring to the boil.:

After boiling 15 to 20 minutes remove the containers, one at a time and complete the seal. Label the tin cans.

Pecans may be canned while in season and held on the pantry shelves to be sent months later overseas to men in Service.
